Narrative begins on the following page.

On Thursday, November 10, 2005, S/A Rodney J. Pevytoe and S/A Thomas A. Sturdivant conducted an examination of evidentiary material held at the Calumet County Sheriff's Department. The Special Agents conducted a detailed review of debris material that was removed from a burn pit in back of the Steven Avery home by officials from the Wisconsin State Crime Laboratory. This ash debris was identified under Calumet County property tag 7924. The evidentiary item was removed from a secured facility by Deputy Richard Riemer, of the Calumet County Sheriff's Department. Deputy Riemer was present during the entire examination process.

The two special Agents conducted a detailed examination of the charred debris. The debris was placed on a table and examined in a well illuminated area. This examination led to the identifications of multiple pieces of what was suspected to be bone fragmentation. Several items that may have been fragmentation of dental remains were also identified. Also discovered within the charred debris were two items suspected to be tissue material.

At the conclusion of the examination of the debris, the materials recovered were turned over to Deputy Riemer. Deputy Riemer subsequently identified the respective materials as:

Item 7924: Unidentified material suspected to be bone.

Item 7925: Identified material charred, potential dental remains.

Items 7926 and 7927: Unidentified charred material suspected to be tissue.

The remains of property tag 7923 were repackaged and replaced back in secure storage at the Calumet County Sheriff's Department by Deputy Riemer. The items separated from the charred material will be submitted for more comprehensive examination.
