MARINE

"As a Marine, as any person serving in the military, the opportunity to meet your commander in chief is a huge honor," Brian said.

"Being a Marine is not easy, especially when you factor in your family," he said. "The biggest reason I can say I'm ready for the lifestyle is because I've got a very strong, well-matched wife beside me who understands and is prepared to support my endeavors with a Marine."

Brian's dad, Robert (Cuba) Robert, said he thinks it will be hard for Brian to leave his hometown in Okauchee.

"I think he's going to miss all the people in his neighborhood," Robert said. "If they get used into him, or something, he wants to be with them. That's the way he is."

Application process

Brian, 23, is currently serving in Okinawa, Japan, as a weapons and tactics instructor and future operations officer for Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron 265. He said he will join HMX-1 in Quantico, Va., in late 2006.

Brian said he submitted an application and a questionnaire concerning his personal and professional history for a position on the HMX-1 crew. HMX-1's chosen crew members based on their application, the results of a background investigation and the professional reputation of the applicant.

"When I saw it, I was in disbelief," he said. "I was excited, overwhelmed and very humbled to think of being a member of the United States for the Christmas holidays."

stare, and encouraged the boy to do so, too.

Dassey said police he would be arrested by a man named Halbach before he and Avery killed her while she was screaming and begging for help.

The homicide charge carries a mandatory life prison term, while the other two charges carry maximum total penalties of 72 years and six months in prison.

Charged as adult

Kratz said the boy is being charged as an adult. Under state law, he could be subject to a procedure called reverse waiver, where he could be sent to juvenile court if a judge decides that system is better equipped to treat and punish the youth.

But Kratz said with the severity of the crime, "It is a virtual certainty he will remain in adult court."

Kratz said the boy's statements explain to officials what happened to Halbach between 1:45 and 11 p.m. Oct. 31.

Avery, brother and lawyer killed Halbach by stabbing and strangling her. Avery said the boy "did a good job he did," Kratz said.

They then took Halbach to a detached garage, where Avery shot her about 10 times with a 22-caliber rifle before they buried the body, Dassey said.

Dassey said he and Avery went to the garage to retrieve the body. Kratz and Page said evidence served for a sexual assault he did not commit.

The criminal complaint filed in Manitowish County Circuit Court outlined a more sinister end-of-empire partnership.

The complaint indicated the boy was riding his bike toward Avery's residence after school last Oct. 31 to deliver the mail from his uncle's mailbox when he heard a woman's screams coming from inside the rental Malibu home.

According to the charging document, Avery came to the front door in response to Dassey's knocking and...

Dassey said he and Avery were in the detached garage when they buried the body and got to home until Avery's release from prison in 2003 after 18 years.
